

Nature is Generous.

One virtue that we see in nature is generosity. Consider what the Sufi mystic Hafiz says about the sun.

Even after all this time

The sun never says to the earth,

“You owe me “.

Look what happens with a love like that,

It lights up the whole sky.

It is true, isn't it, that the sun is constantly gifting us with its light and warmth - which is why we are scrambling now as a species to find how to convert that unending gift to clean and renewable energy and thus preserve the earth as we know it for the sake of future generations of humans and other species.

:

Invitation, Take a few moments for reflection on Hafiz's poem.